

SAFETY CORNER

By Craig Couturier

HOGsafety4755@gmail.com

RIDING AWARE

Most and Least Dangerous States for Motorcycle Riders (Map)

This is what it all comes down to, you and the road. There are millions of roads in this country, from one lane dirt to 12 lane highways. When you ride, the surface conditions, traffic, and the weather can be changing. You have to be constantly aware of a lot of things. Daydreaming when you're on a motorcycle isn't a good idea. Things happen fast out there on the road, and you have to be prepared.

The See System is a good reminder for riding in traffic. S-Search around you for potential hazards. E-evaluate any possible hazard, such as turning cars, railroad tracks, etc.

E-Execute the proper actions to avoid hazards. This See is a mental system for safe motorcycling. Use it effectively and you'll cover many safe miles on your motorcycle.

Keep your eyes moving, don't get fascinated by that '53 Corvette off to your right or rubber necking at an accident scene. If your eyes are locked on one thing, you may be ignoring some situation that could affect your ride.

Look ahead, look to the side, and look at your mirrors, keep looking to anticipate the oncoming. One more thing, have the time to react, no tailgating. Enjoy the ride and stay safe.

Craig C